TRAIL DETAILS

LENGTH AND GRADE: 31 miles following a mostly flat railroad grade with 22% of elevation gain from Fall City to Snoqualmie.

SURFACE: Crushed rock and original ballast surfacing from Duvall to Rattlesnake Lake with a 2.5 mile on-street detour around the historic Snoqualmie Mill Site. Former railroad embankments along the trail have been upgraded with hard-surface decking and hand rails.

ACCESSIBILITY: Due to the crushed-rock surface, the trail is not readily accessible to people in wheelchairs.

USERS: Frequent users include mountain bikers, hikers, horseback riders, birders, walkers and more!

DISTANCE: (miles along the trail)

Long before explorers came to the Pacific Northwest, the Snoqualmie Tribe, or People of the Moon, settled in the area to partake in the abundant resources: salmon, wildlife, and vegetation that rely on the river. The river later attracted European settlers, who used it as a transport system for timber, and then, once cleared used its fertile soils to farm and provide food for the surrounding communities.

The Snoqualmie Valley Trail parallels the river and occupies the historic path of a spur line of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad. Today, the river connects the Valley communities, sustains its farms, provides aesthetic value and recreational opportunities, and is filled with salmon and other fish species.
